ANARCHISM DECOLONISED

There is a growing number of global majority anarchists in the UK deprived of spaces that centre our voices. A lack of infrastructure has made it harder to engage, celebrate and agitate together. We tried to confront this in the previous issue of the magazine and we're asking for your help again for this installment:

Issue 2: Insurgency & Counter-Insurgency

Across the world, insurgent movements are clashing with state forces. Such as the ongoing anti-colonial uprising in Martinique against the occupation forces and the ruling class's constant price gouging. What can we learn about these movements? How can we confront the state like this, rather than awkwardly hobbling along with the rest of the "social movements" in this country who seem more interested in chanting and taking photos than fighting.

We want poetry, essays, reportbacks, critiques and we can conduct interviews if you fancy.

The magazine is anti-copyright and will be available in print for individual purchase or subscription. No one turned away for lack of funds, copies can be sent for free to prisoners.

P.S. Preferred format for submissions is plain text via email so we can reformat them quickly.

Deadline for issue 2 is April 1st - Out May 1st.
